President Declares Activity of Foreign-Born Must Be Absolutely Crushed.

KEYNOTE OF CAMPAIGN SOUNDED AT MONUMENT

Denounces Attempt to Levy Politi cal Blackmail in Flag Day Address to Thousands.

States now are working to undermine the influence of the national government; they are trying to levy a sort of political blackmail, President Wilson vesterday afternoon told the thousands of government employes and others ngton Monument to participate in the interdepartmental Flag day celebration. The President had just finished reviewing the preparedness parade. The President's assertion sounded the keynote of one of the foremost issues on which he will go before the country for re-election, and touched upon a platform declaration which will be submitted by the administration to the St. Louis convention.

He declared that not since the civil var had it been tested as it now is being tested whether the Stars and Stripes stood for any one united pur-Must Crush Disloyalty.

"There is disloyalty active in the United States and it must be absolutely crushed," declared the President, speaking emphatically. "It proceeds from a minority, a very small minority, but a minority, a very small minority, but a very active and subtle minority.

"It works underground, but it also shows its ugly head where we can see it; and there are those at this moment who are trying to levy a species of political blackmail, saying 'Do what we wish in the interest of foreign sentiment, or we will wreak our vengeance at the polis.' That is the sort of thing against which the American nation will turn with a might and triumph of sentiment which will teach these gentlemen once for all that loyalty to this fiag is the first test of tolerance in the United States."

The President's words were taken as an open challenge to foreign-born Americans, who he has learned from foreign language newspapers and other sources are opposing him for re-election. Officials close to him said he was outlining his stand on what he had determined to make a predominant issue in his campaign.

Almost every man and woman in the President's audience carried an American fiag. Before he began speaking a platoon from Battery A, Field Artillery, N. G., D. C., fired a national salute of twenty-one guns, and the Marine Band played the Star Spangled Banner, while a huge fiag was drawn slowly to the top of the white monument, 555 feet above the ground. Secretary Lansing presided and in introducing the President emphasized the duty of present-day Americans to preserve unsullied ideals handed down by the founders of the republic.

Text of the Address. The text of the President's address

"Mr. Secretary, Ladies and Gentlemen: "I have not come here this afternoon with the purpose of delivering to you an elaborate address. It seems to me an elaborate address. It seems to me that the day is sufficiently eloquent already with the meaning which it should convey to us. The spectacle of the morning has been a very moving spectacle indeed, an almost unprecedented outpouring of thousands of sober citizens to manifest their interest in the safety of the country and the sacredness of the flag which is its emblem.

the sacredness of the high which a teemblem.

"I need not remind you how much sentiment has been poured out in honor of the flag of the United States.
Sometimes we have been charged with being a very sentimental people, fond of expressing in general rhetorical phrases principles not sufficiently defined in action, and I dare say there have been times of happy and careless ease in this country when all that it has been necessary to do for the honor of the flag was to put our sentiments into poetic expressions, into the words that for the time being satisfied our hearts.
But this is not a day of sentiment.
Sentiment is a propulsive power, but it does not propel in the way that is serviceable to the nation, unless it have a definite purpose before it. This is not merely a day of sentiment. It is a day of purpose.

Beaus Telbute to Washington.

Pays Tribute to Washington. "It is an eloquent symbol of the unity of our history that upon this monument, which commemorates the man who did most to establish the American Union, we should have hoisted those Union, we should have hoisted those stars that have so multiplied since his time, associated with those lines of red and white, which mean all that is pure in our plood in the service of a nation whose history has been full of inspiration because of his example. But Washington was one of the least sentimental men that America has ever produced. The thing that thrills me about Washington is that he is impatient of any sentiment that has not got definite purpose in it. His letters run along the lines of action, not merrly along the lines of sentiment, and the most inspiring times that this nation has ever seen have been the times when sentiment had to be translated into action. "Apparently this nation is again and again and again to be tested, and always tested in the same way. The last supreme test that this nation went through was the test of the civil war. You know how deep that cut. You know what exigent issues of life were at issue in that struggle. You know how two great sections of this Union seemed to be moving in opposite directions, and for a long time it was questionable whether that flag represented any one united purpose in America. And you know how deep that struggle whether that flag represented any one united purpose in America. And you know how deep that struggle cut into the sentiments of this people, and how there came a whole generation following that great struggle when men's hearts were bitter and sore, and memories hurt as well as exaited, and how it seemed as if a rift had come in the hearts of the people of America.

All Wounds Have Healed. stars that have so multiplied since his

All Wounds Have Healed. "And you know how that ended. While t seemed a time of terror, it has turned out a proof of the validity of our hope. Where are now the divisions of sentiment which cut us asunder at the time of the civil war? Did you not see the blue and the gray mingled this morning in the procession? Did not you see the sons of a subsequent generation walking together in happy comradeship?

"Was there any contradiction of feeling or division of sentiment evident there for a moment? Nothing cuts so deep as a civil war, and yet all the wounds of that war have been healed, not only, but the very passion of that war seems to have contributed to the strength of national feeling which now moves us as a single body politic.

"And yet again the test is applied, my fellow-countrymen. A new sort of division of feeling has sprung up amongst us. You know that we are derived in our citizenship from every nation in the world. It is not singular that sentiment should be disturbed by what is going on on the other side of the water, but while sentiment may be disturbed, loyalty ought not to be.

"I want to be scrupulously just, my fellow citizens in the gray mingled this morning in the

for all that loyalty to this fiag is the first test of tolerance in the United States.

"That is the lesson that I have come to remind you of on this day—no mere sentiment. It runs into your daily life and conversation. Are you going yourselves, individually and collectively, to see to it that no man is tolerated who does not do honor to that fiag? It is not a matter of force. It is not a matter, that is to say, of physical force. It is a matter of spraint of spritual force. It is a matter of spritual force. It is a matter of spritual force. It is to be achieved as we think, as we purpose, as we believe, and when the world finally learns that America is indivisible, then the world will learn how truly and profoundly great and powerful America is. "I realize personally, my fellow-citizens, the peculiar significance of the fiag of the United States at this time, because there was a day not many years ago when, although I thought I knew what that flag stood for, it had not penetrated my whole consciousness as it has now. If you could have gone with me through the space of the last two years, and could have felt the subtle impact of intrigue and sedition, and have realized with me that those to whom you have intrusted authority are trustees not only of the power, but of the very spirit and purpose of the United States, you would realize with me the solemnity with which I look upon that sublime symbol of our unity and power. I want you to share that consciousness with me. I want you to and power. I want you to share that consciousness with me. I want you to realize that in what I am saying I am merely your spokesman, merely trying to interpret your thoughts, merely trying to put into inadequate words the commstances of this day, and I am sure that you wish with me to deal out with an even hand the praise and the blame of this day of test. I believe that the vast majority of those men whose lineage is directly derived from the nations now at war are just as any native citisen of this beloved land, but there are some men of that earns and the present time, are doing their best to undermitte in a red of the United States to gather together in celebration of this day, the anniversary of the adoption of our present figs as the influence of the government of the United States in the interest of matters which are foreign to us, and which are not derived from the questions of our own, politics.

First Test of Tolerance.

There is disloyalty active in the United States in the interest of the united States and it must be absolutely crushed. It proceeds from a minority, a very small minority, but a very active and subtle minority. It works underground, but it also shows its ugly head where we can see it; and there are to one will be added to the control of the states and the control of the contr
